Response to Amendment

The following is in response to the amendment filed on July 29, 2005.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 55, 57, 58, 65, and 67-77 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Assarsson (US 3,901,236). Assarsson discloses a hydrogel composite for absorbent articles, the composite comprising absorbent hydrogel particles (superabsorbent particles) bound to fibers. Exemplary polymeric materials for the hydrogel particles are given in column 3. The fibers may be cellulose fibers (column 4, lines 32-35). The hydrogel particles are anchored within a fibrous matrix. Materials may be added to the fibers to enhance the anchoring of the hydrogel particles thereto. See column 4, lines 40-46 and column 5, lines 43-45. These materials are effectively binder materials. See also column 7, lines 9-19 regarding additives. Possible binder materials include glycols (i.e., diols). See column 4, line 50. As for the claimed limitation of "from about 1 to 40% by weight based on the weight of the cellulose fiber" of a chemical binder, this is obvious in the teaching of Assarsson when it recommends adding other materials to the fibers. The amount of binder will vary depend on the particular type of hydrogel and on the desired absorbent properties of the final product, which depend in part on the adhesion between fiber and hydrogel. The amount of binder is within one skilled of the art as being mere routine experimentation to determine optimum results, absent evidence of unexpected results. As for the claimed diols, the use of any one of the claimed compounds would have been obvious to one skilled in the art, as the selection or use of adjacent homologs or subsequent subspecies of the same class (diols) is merely using equivalent material to achieve the same results, absent evidence of any unexpected results.

Art Unit: 1731

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 78-79 are allowed.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

The claims are allowed for providing a binder comprising a hydroxy acid.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed July 29, 2005 have been fully considered.

The arguments and amendments to the claims have overcome the rejections set forth previously based on Chen (US 5,360,419).

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

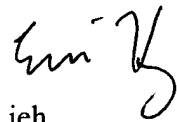

Herron et al (US 5,137,537) discloses an absorbent articles comprising hydrogel particles and crosslinked cellulose fibers (via citric acid).
